DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claim 1 and its dependent claims are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 1, line 20, "the at least one response" and in claim 3, "said presenting" and "the operation of a randomly set timer" lack a proper antecedent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claim 1 generally relates to a manipulation of "people" (or players). In line with MPEP 2105,

"If the broadest reasonable interpretation of the claimed invention as a whole encompasses a human being, then a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 101 must be made indicating that the claimed invention is directed to nonstatutory subject matter."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Demar et al in view of Walker and Feud History (i.e. Family Feud.)

Demar is representative of types of slot machines that have a primary wagering game played in combination with a secondary bonusing game. The bonusing game is entered upon a predetermined occurrence in the primary game which may be a single event, combination of events or an accumulation of desired events. Like Demar, the instant invention calls for a primary wagering game with a secondary game. However, Demar fails to discuss a "survey based bonus game" as called for in the claim. Walker teaches that trivia type bonusing games are known. One well known trivia game is the Family Feud. To have replaced the "bonus mode" of Demar with a Family Feud type trivia game would have been an obvious matter of replacing one known game for that of another. In the instant case, merely changing the types of games combined must show some particular problem solved or some unexpected results achieved to be considered critical to the claimed invention.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Thomas, Gura, Pierce, Adams and Giobbi show primary/secondary combination type bounusing games. Claypole, Thompson and keller show trivia games combined with a wagering game.
